THE BACCHANAL THAT IS LES BAINS DOUCHES

BY GERRARD CARTER

It comes as no surprise that the iconic motif that presides over the historic Haussmannian façade of Les Bains Douches is that of an elaborate sculpture of the Roman God Bacchus. Celebrated as the god of wine and ecstasy, this omnipresent emblem has been the privileged witness to over one hundred and thirty years of Parisian nightlife, rich in indulgence and artistic freedom. The God Bacchus now serves as the venue's insignia to capturing your unique bacchanal: that pleasure filled evening of your dreams that only an iconic venue such as les Bains can provide. Neatly tucked away in the third arrondissement of Paris, Les Bains Douches is the unrivalled Parisian hub for those seeking pleasure and avant-garde eccentricities.
